Alumni, Emeritus, and Honorary Members

With such a small legal community in Cheyenne, Wyoming, it is important for the Inn to return as many members as possible every year. The Ewing T. Kerr Inn sends an invitation to all of the members from the prior 2 years in an attempt to retain as many members as possible. Additionally, the Inn Leadership committee reaches out to any members that no longer choose to participate in the Inn to encourage those members to continue participating. With regard to Alumni members, the Inn Leadership will frequently make calls to prominent Alumni members in an attempt to get the members to continue participating in the Inns. The Inn tracks these members using the National Inn's online system and its own tracking spreadsheets.

Finally, the Inn has approximately 3-5 honorary members every year. These Honorary Members are members that would provide great benefits to our Inn, but that may not be able to attend every meeting. For example, this past year, our honorary members consisted of retired District Judge Clarence Brimmer, United States Congressman Cynthia Lummis, and Wyoming Governor Matt Mead. The Inn Leadership makes a point to invite these members to all meetings and offer speaking opportunities. When available, the Honorary Members have attended. The Inn Leadership reaches out to these Honorary Members individually to secure their membership.
